

Abstract of the Disclosure

A synchronous non-volatile memory device has address input connections and data input/output connections. A test operation can be initiated that use signals provided on the address input connections and not the data input/output connections.

5 The test mode can be entered using either commands or a combination of commands and an electronic key.

2017-01-10 10:10:00 AM CDT